QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS SESSION OF THE ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING HELD ON MONDAY, 29 APRIL 2019 AT SUNTEC SINGAPORE INTERNATIONAL CONVENTION & EXHIBITION CENTRE, ROOM 311, 2 RAFFLES BOULEVARD, SINGAPORE 039593

1. Mr. Manohar P Sabnani ("Mr. Sabnani") asked for the reasons for the Company’s 2017 deficit and what the pitfalls of doing business in the future for the Company are.

   The Chairman replied that, a significant portion of the Group’s revenues came from IT Distribution segment and, in particular in respect of IBM products, an internal restructuring exercise of IBM in 2017 reduced the revenue generated from IBM, which in turn made the hardware resale business challenging for the Company in 2017. Nevertheless, the Group had managed to enter into numbers of large IT Lifecycle Services contracts in 2017. However, due to changes in the accounting treatment of such contracts, the revenue generated from such contracts were required to be recognized over several financial years instead of in a single financial year as was done previously. Thus, this gave the impression that the Company was not performing well and resulted in a financial loss position for 2017.

   The Chairman also said the Company had better visibility, in terms of the volume of its business deals in the pipeline, for 2019 as compared to 2017.

   The Chairman further said the Company had identified the IT Asset Disposition ("ITAD") business segment as a huge business opportunity which could be a key driver for profits in the future and Management was focused in ensuring that the Company can act fast enough to capture this opportunity and not miss the upside potential and lose its current leadership position in the market.

2. With regard to the current trend of companies adopting cloud computing, Mr. Sabnani asked how the Company deals with such used IT equipment disposed of by such companies and who normally acquires them and how the Company makes money from this business.

   The Chairman said the disposed used IT equipment will be disassembled for recyclable chips and parts for reselling to companies from different parts of the world and mainly to China which has strong demand for these products. He cited most of the recyclable parts were still in good condition and could be used in building various electronic products, such as security cameras or washing machines. He further said the revenue generated from the salvage value from retired or discarded equipment were normally shared among sellers of the equipment and the Company.

3. Mr. Sabnani further enquired if ITAD is a “transitional business” for the Company as when most of the companies migrate into cloud computing, eventually, there would be limited supply of used IT equipment left in the market for disassembly by the Group in the future.

   The Chairman replied that the ITAD business was expected to have a business life span of 10 to 15 years from now. This is considered to be a long business life span as the normal life span of an IT business is typically short and not more than 5 years. Management believed the Company would have more than sufficient time to remodel or reposition its business for the future in 10 to 15 years.
4. Mr. Sabnani asked what was stopping other players in the market from entering the ITAD business as the entry barrier for this business is not high.

The Chairman responded that there were a number of players in the market trying to get into the ITAD business. They spend heavy capital investment of $10 to $20 million in building their own factories to disassemble used IT equipment. However, what is actually important in this business is the flow of equipment and reseller networks. The Company took a long time in building its current reseller networking and relationships. At present, the Company has the flow of equipment with about 4,000 resellers around the world working with IT vendors every day for distribution and marketing of the recyclable hardware to different countries. Despite not having a factory at the moment, the Company has a competitive edge and strong position in the market over other players from the reseller networking perspective. Nevertheless, the Company could consider either to build a factory of its own or enter into partnership with other companies for disassembly processing when the time is right.

5. Mr. Sabnani asked if the Company is confident in facing the challenges ahead for the ITAD business.

The Chairman replied the Management has strong confidence in this new business and the track record of being able to grow the Company from $0 to its current $200 million size in 6 years was a good testament of Management’s ability to take challenges for new businesses.

6. Mr. Nicolas Van Broekhoven ("Mr. Broekhoven") enquired if the Company has a separate report for the ITAD business to share with the shareholders.

The Chairman responded that the ITAD business was still at an early stage. Thus, there was no separate financial report for this new business segment for shareholders. Management could consider reporting this new business separately as and when the size of this business grows bigger and it becomes meaningful to do so in the future.

7. Mr. Broekhoven enquired what was Management’s view on its current business relationship with the new partners, Nutanix and PureWrx, and how Management intends to ward off competition from players in the same industry.

The Chairman responded that both partners are good companies in the market with somewhat different nature of business with Procurri from service scope, products and business strategies perspective. The Company will continue its current strategy in offering value added services and differentiated products to its customers to gain competitive edge over other players in the market.
